

◀ SETTING THE MOOD

Not just any ordinary candle, the Hermès Nuit du Solstice Candle Bowl makes an elegant statement in your living room or bedroom. Combining notes of spices and the soft warmth of wood, this porcelain scented candle bowl was inspired by the reveries of perfumer Céline Ellena. The sweet smell paired with clean style and a pop of color will show off your flair for design and decor. Available at Neiman Marcus and NeimanMarcus.com, $450

COMING UP PEONIES ▶

It's never too early to think of spring flowers. Allow Field + Fleur's newest fragrance, Peony Blush, help you transition into the new season early. With powerful notes of peony, this feminine fragrance transports you into a meadow of fresh flowers. The perfect blend of rose, jasmine, sandalwood and pink peppercorn, this mist is light and airy, and boasts a quintessential springtime freshness. Available at HillHouseNaturals.com, $20

◀ GO FOR THE GOLD

Strike a deal with the lords of age by indulging in Ambra Salon and European Spa's 24K GOLD Facial. Taking luxury skincare to the next level, a microneedling therapy penetrates the surface of the skin and slows down collagen depletion before a 24K gold leaf is massaged into the skin. Leaving your skin silky smooth, blemishes and age spots will be things of the past after this royal treatment. Available at Ambra Salon and European Spa, $400

◀ LIMITED EDITION LALIQUE

Who says a perfume is simply for wearing? In Lalique's case, the French brand's 2017 limited-edition Bacchantes perfume bottle is also a highly collectible piece of art. This year's bottle showcases the brand's signature Bacchantes pattern in a stunning crystal—numbered and signed as befits its limited-edition status. The fragrance is as stunning as the exterior, with fruity notes of blackberry, green black currant leaf and pear. Available at NeimanMarcus.com, $1,800

LET'S TALK TERRARIUMS ▶

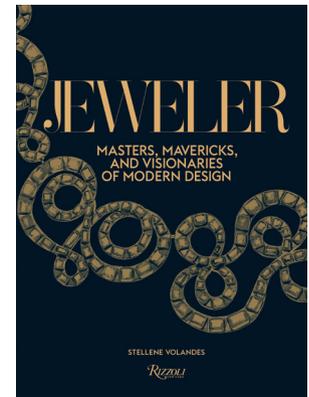

The New York-based design firm Okeanos Aquascaping is shaking up the architectural realm by transforming ordinary rooms into one-of-a-kind spaces with custom-made aquariums, ponds and water features. The company, founded by Martin Schapira and Nathan Kamelhar, is showcasing its newest innovation, Elevate, which displays succulents in a lab-grade glass vessel that sits above the surface (hence the name). Whether you enjoy just plants or an additional hand-painted skull (limited-edition skulls crafted by Alec Monopoly, King Saladeen and Martinus Maximus the Third are also available), this terrarium display is sure to turn heads. Available at Isolat-e.com, starts at $325

THE BOOK OF JEWELS ▶

Stellene Volandes, Editor-In-Chief of Town and Country, is nothing short of a jewelry expert. Volandes made a guest appearance at Winnetka's neapolitan collection boutique in February to debut her Rizzoli-published Jeweler: Masters, Mavericks, and Visionaries of Modern Design. In the book, she highlights today's most influential designers, focusing on 17 modern masters from around the world. Featuring breathtaking photos of stunningly beautiful jewelry, Volandes' book is a must-have on your wish list. Available at Barneys.com, $85

◀ A ROYAL BREW

Drinking coffee like a royal is now possible with Royal Paris' 24-karat gold coffee maker. Handcrafted by French artist Jean-Luc Rieurtort, the Royal Coffee Maker doubles as a coffee maker and a work of art. Fashioned with a syphon brewer, a tool used in the mid-19th century to brew coffee for socialites, only eight Royal Coffee Makers are produced each month. The bespoke machine uses a Baccarat carafe and comes in 24-karat gold, copper or silver. Buyers can customize the base as well with semiprecious black obsidian, azurite or malachite with engravings. The brewing process is exquisite and perfectly timed, resulting in the perfect cup of coffee every time. Available at RoyalCoffeeMaker.com, retails between $10,000-$18,000
